

Campbellford Memorial Hospital Launches New Web Site to Enhance Its Patient Experience

For Immediate Release: December 23, 2015

News:

Campbellford Memorial Hospital has launched a new updated and easy to use web site. This new site offers users a more modern web experience that is robust with better and updated content, document and response features. If a hospital visit is in your future, we encourage you to visit the site to get all of the information you need to prepare for your experience.

The site uses the latest technology and is designed for ease of access and viewing on mobile phones and devices. It is compliant with accessibility legislation, recognizing the new regulations requiring that site content published after June 1, 2012 conform to what is called the “World Wide Web Consortium Web Content Accessibility Guidelines 2.0, Level AA.”

Content and navigational features were designed with patients and other stakeholders in mind. The site is also designed to make it easy to search topics of interest to hospital patients and their families and will support on-line payment of hospital services.

“We’re really proud of our new web site. Our commitment to access and a quality patient experience extends beyond the walls of our hospital to the on-line community we connect with and serve regularly with our web site. We believe visitors to our site should be able to access the information they need quickly and with little effort. We also believe our new site is part of quality patient experience that our teams strive to delivery every day,” says Brad Hilker, President and CEO, Campbellford Memorial Hospital.
